academics

Teachers have awful power over our lives. Their enthusiasm can make an experience, and their interest directs our interest. You can love math one year and hate it the next. Much of the decision to devote your time, or your life, to a field of study depends on the kind of inspiration received from people in that field.

activities

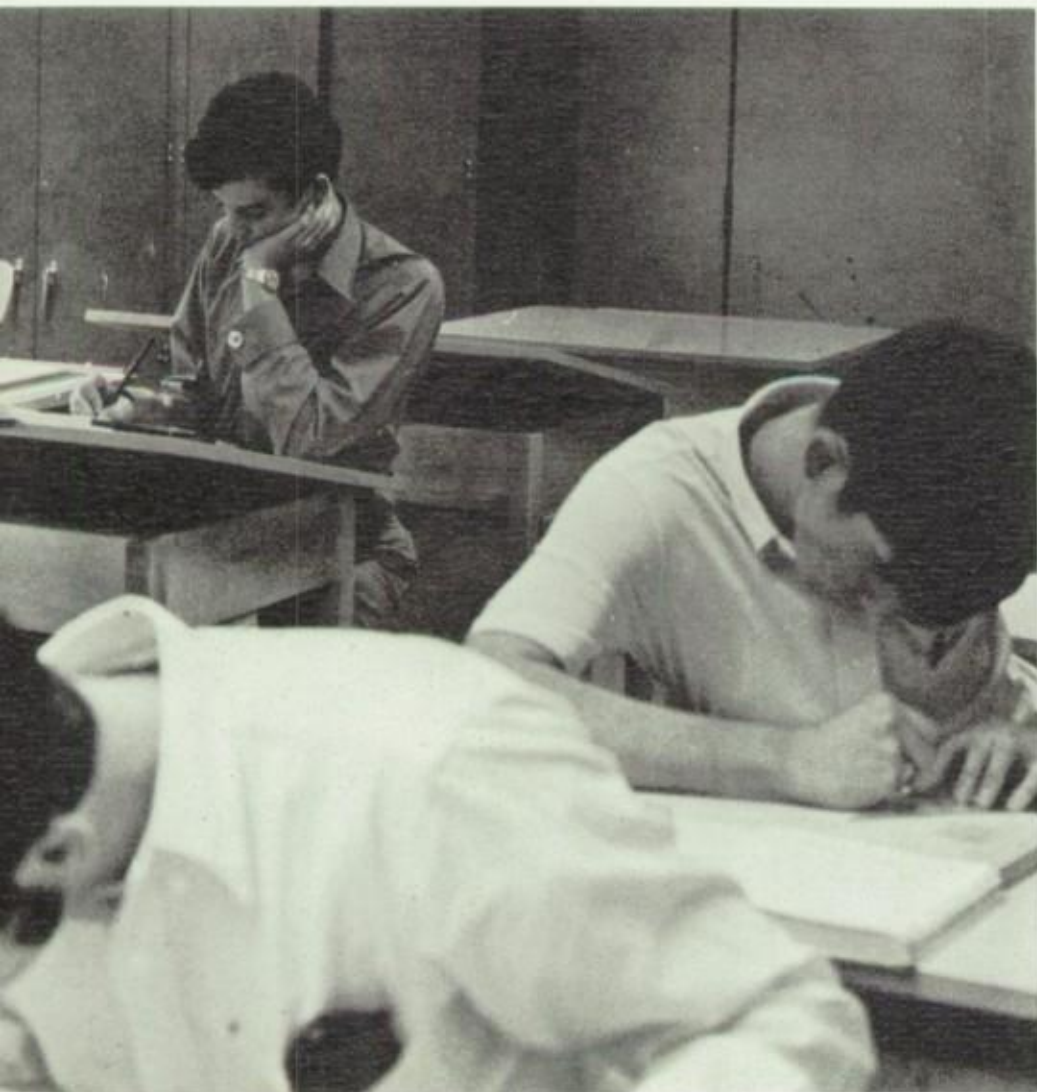

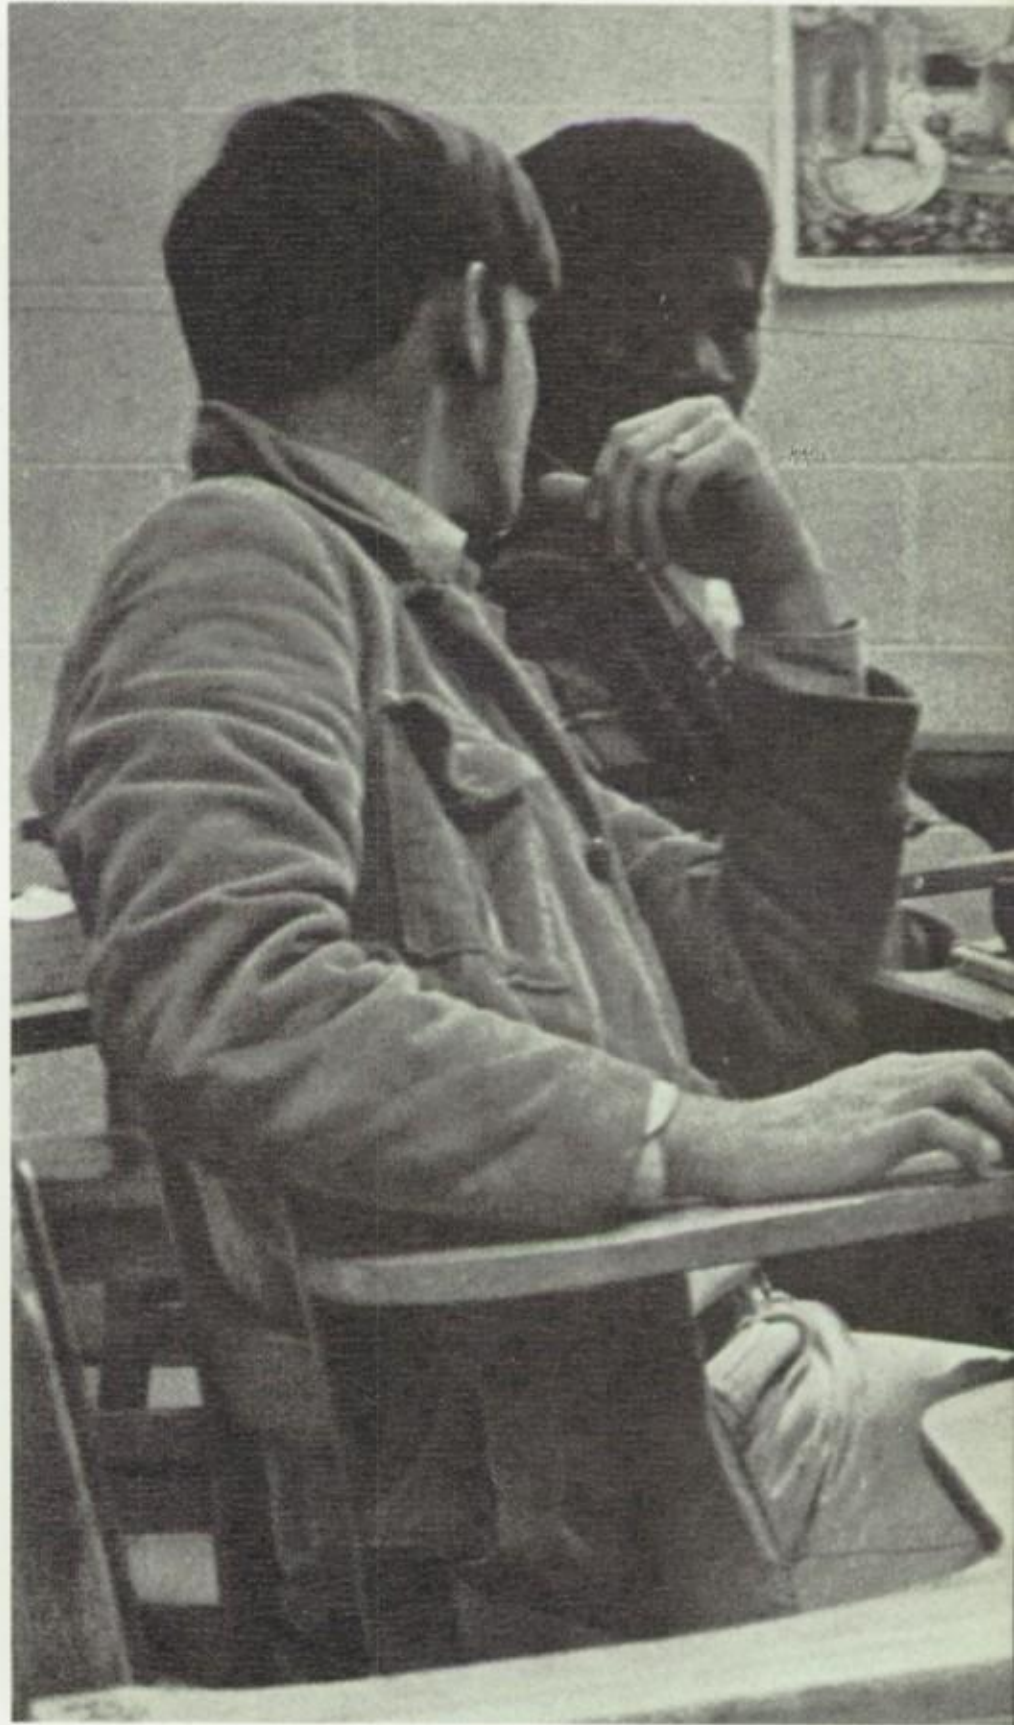

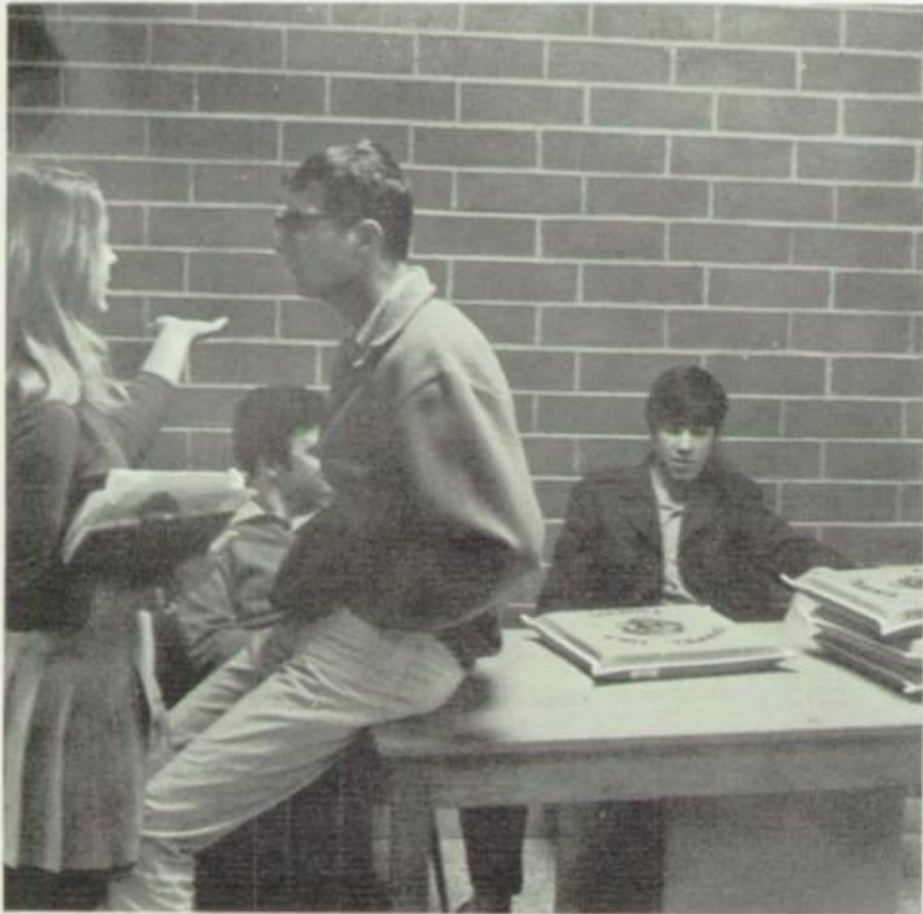

Club period is the student's greatly esteemed chance for self-expression. He expresses his interest by joining the club of his choice; or possibly he expresses his disinterest by ignoring what goes on in his club.

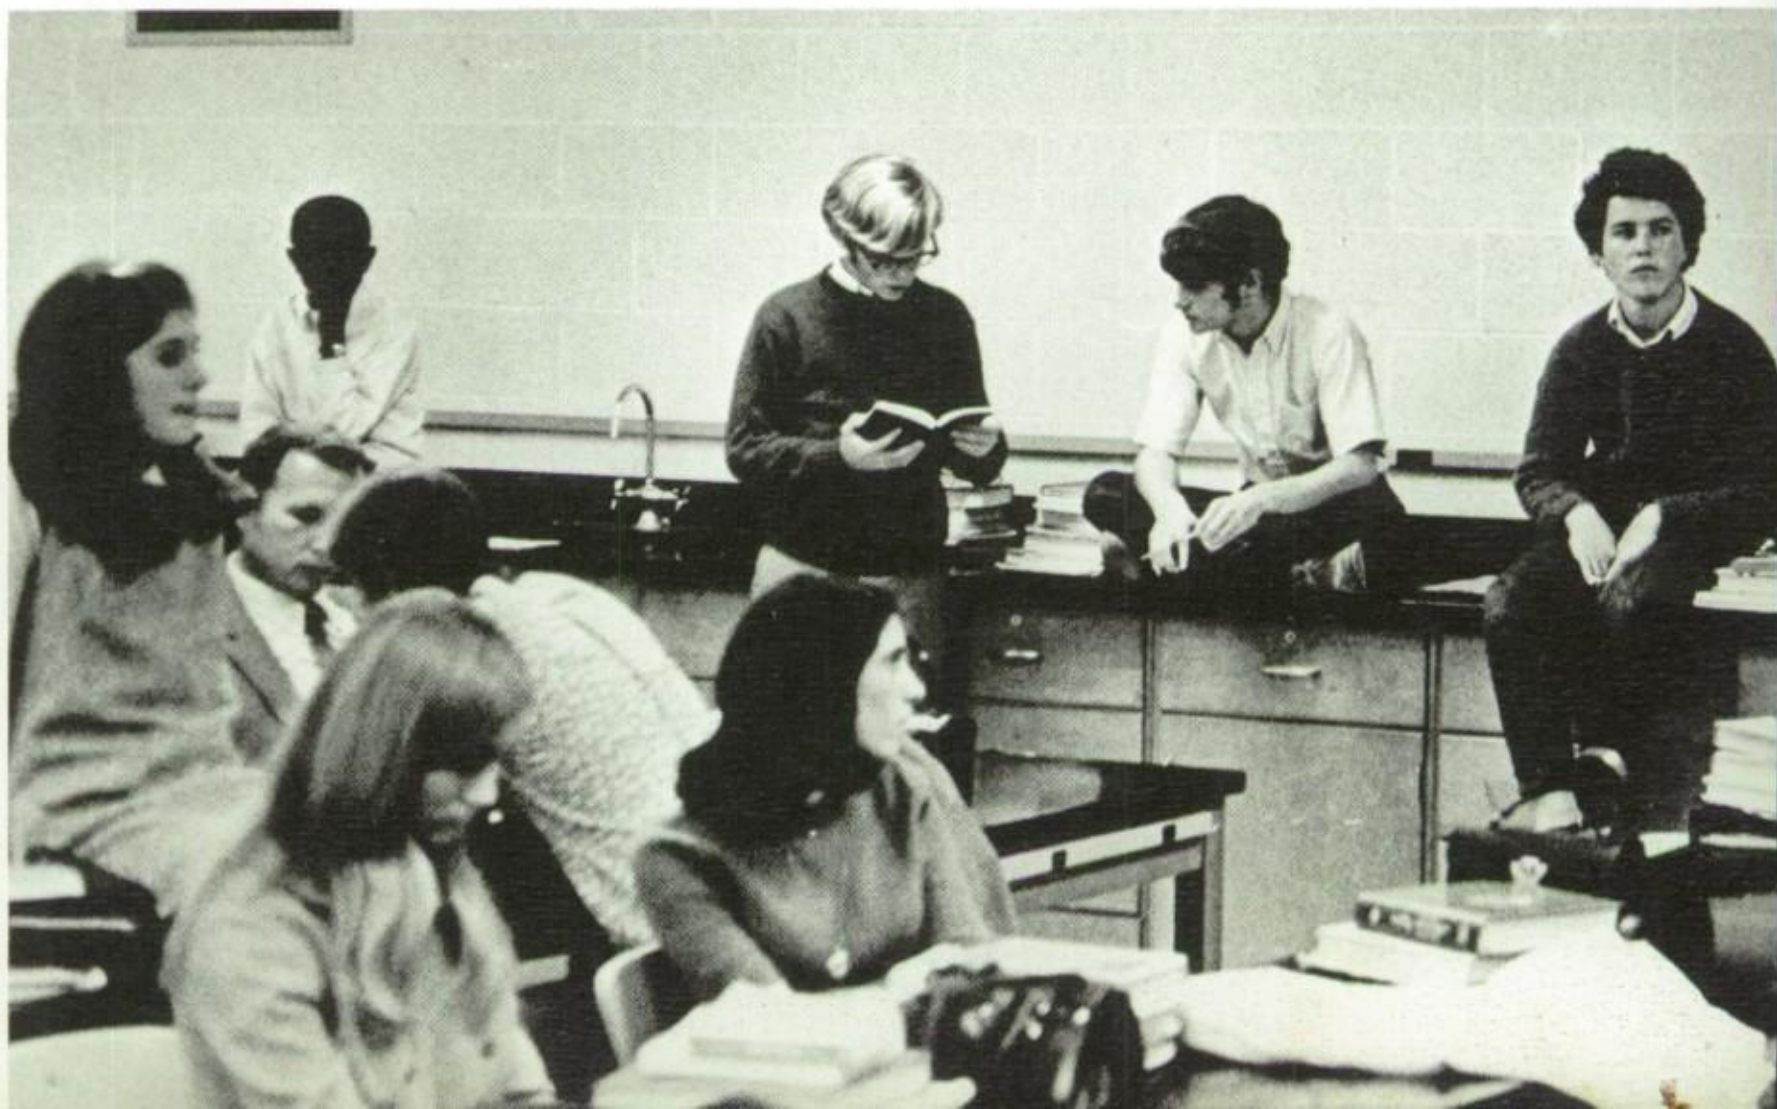

Anyway it can be a welcome chance to do forgotten homework or study for the pop test your third period teacher gave his first period class.

sports

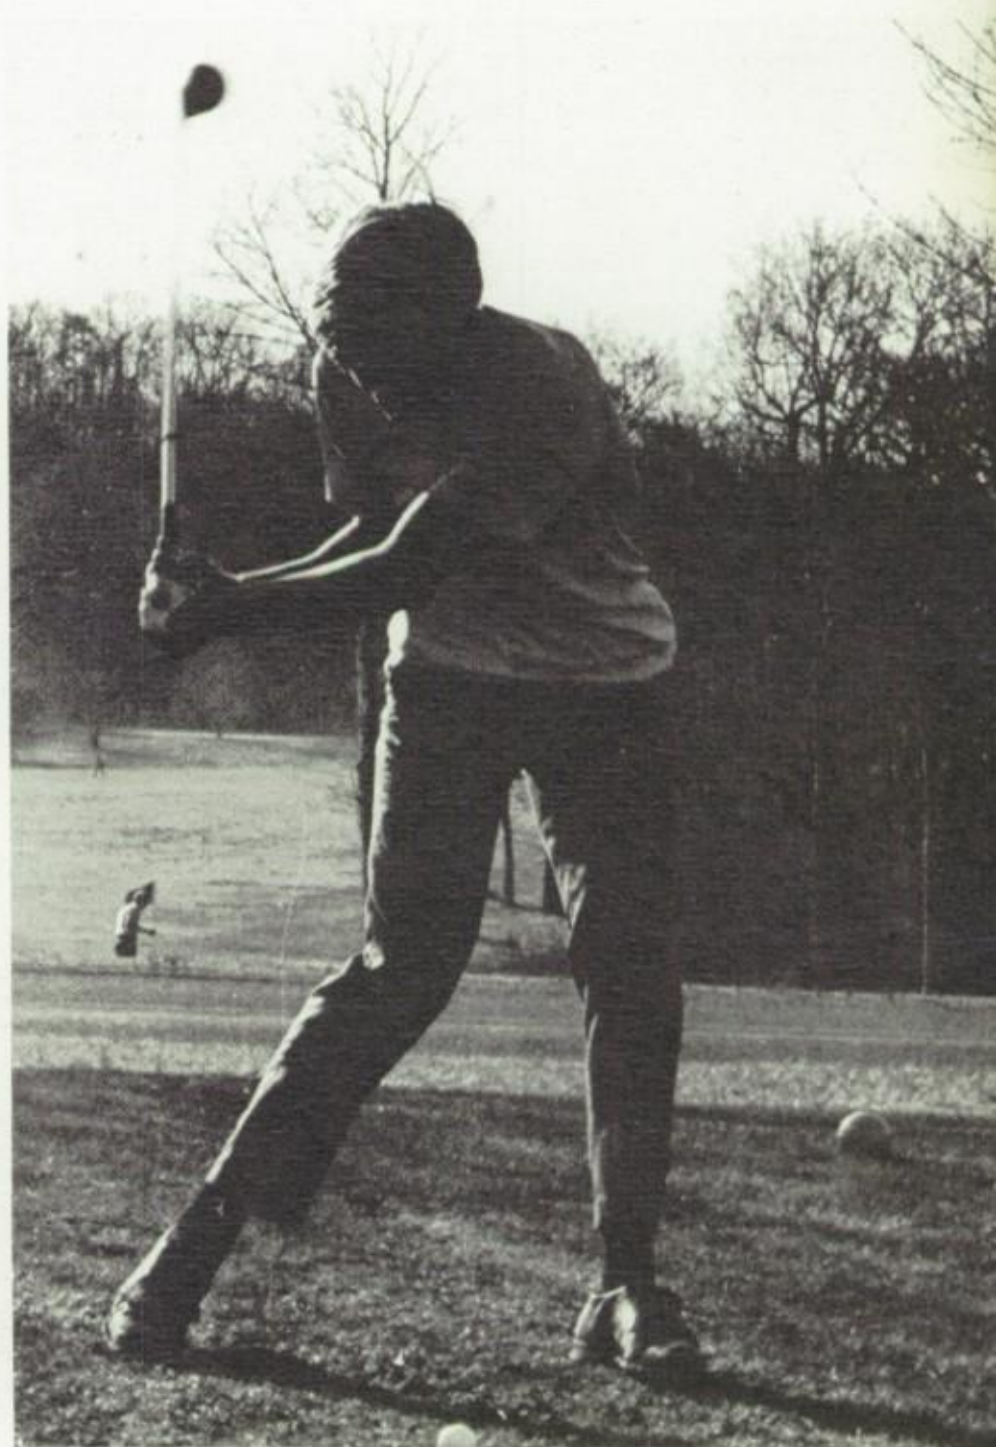

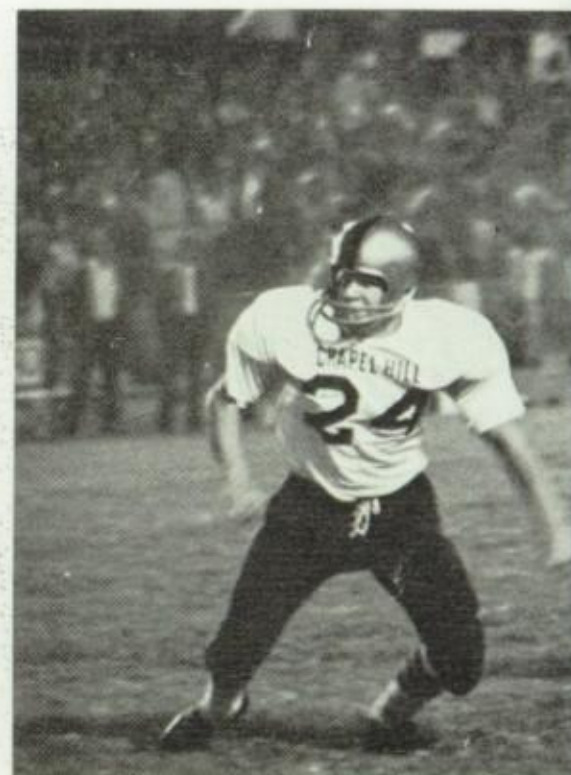

There is something special about Sport.
On the surface it's team against team,
Man against man. But underneath,
It's always Man against Himself.

To run faster, jump higher,
To do a little better than
The day before.

And when it's over, even
The Loser has Won.

features

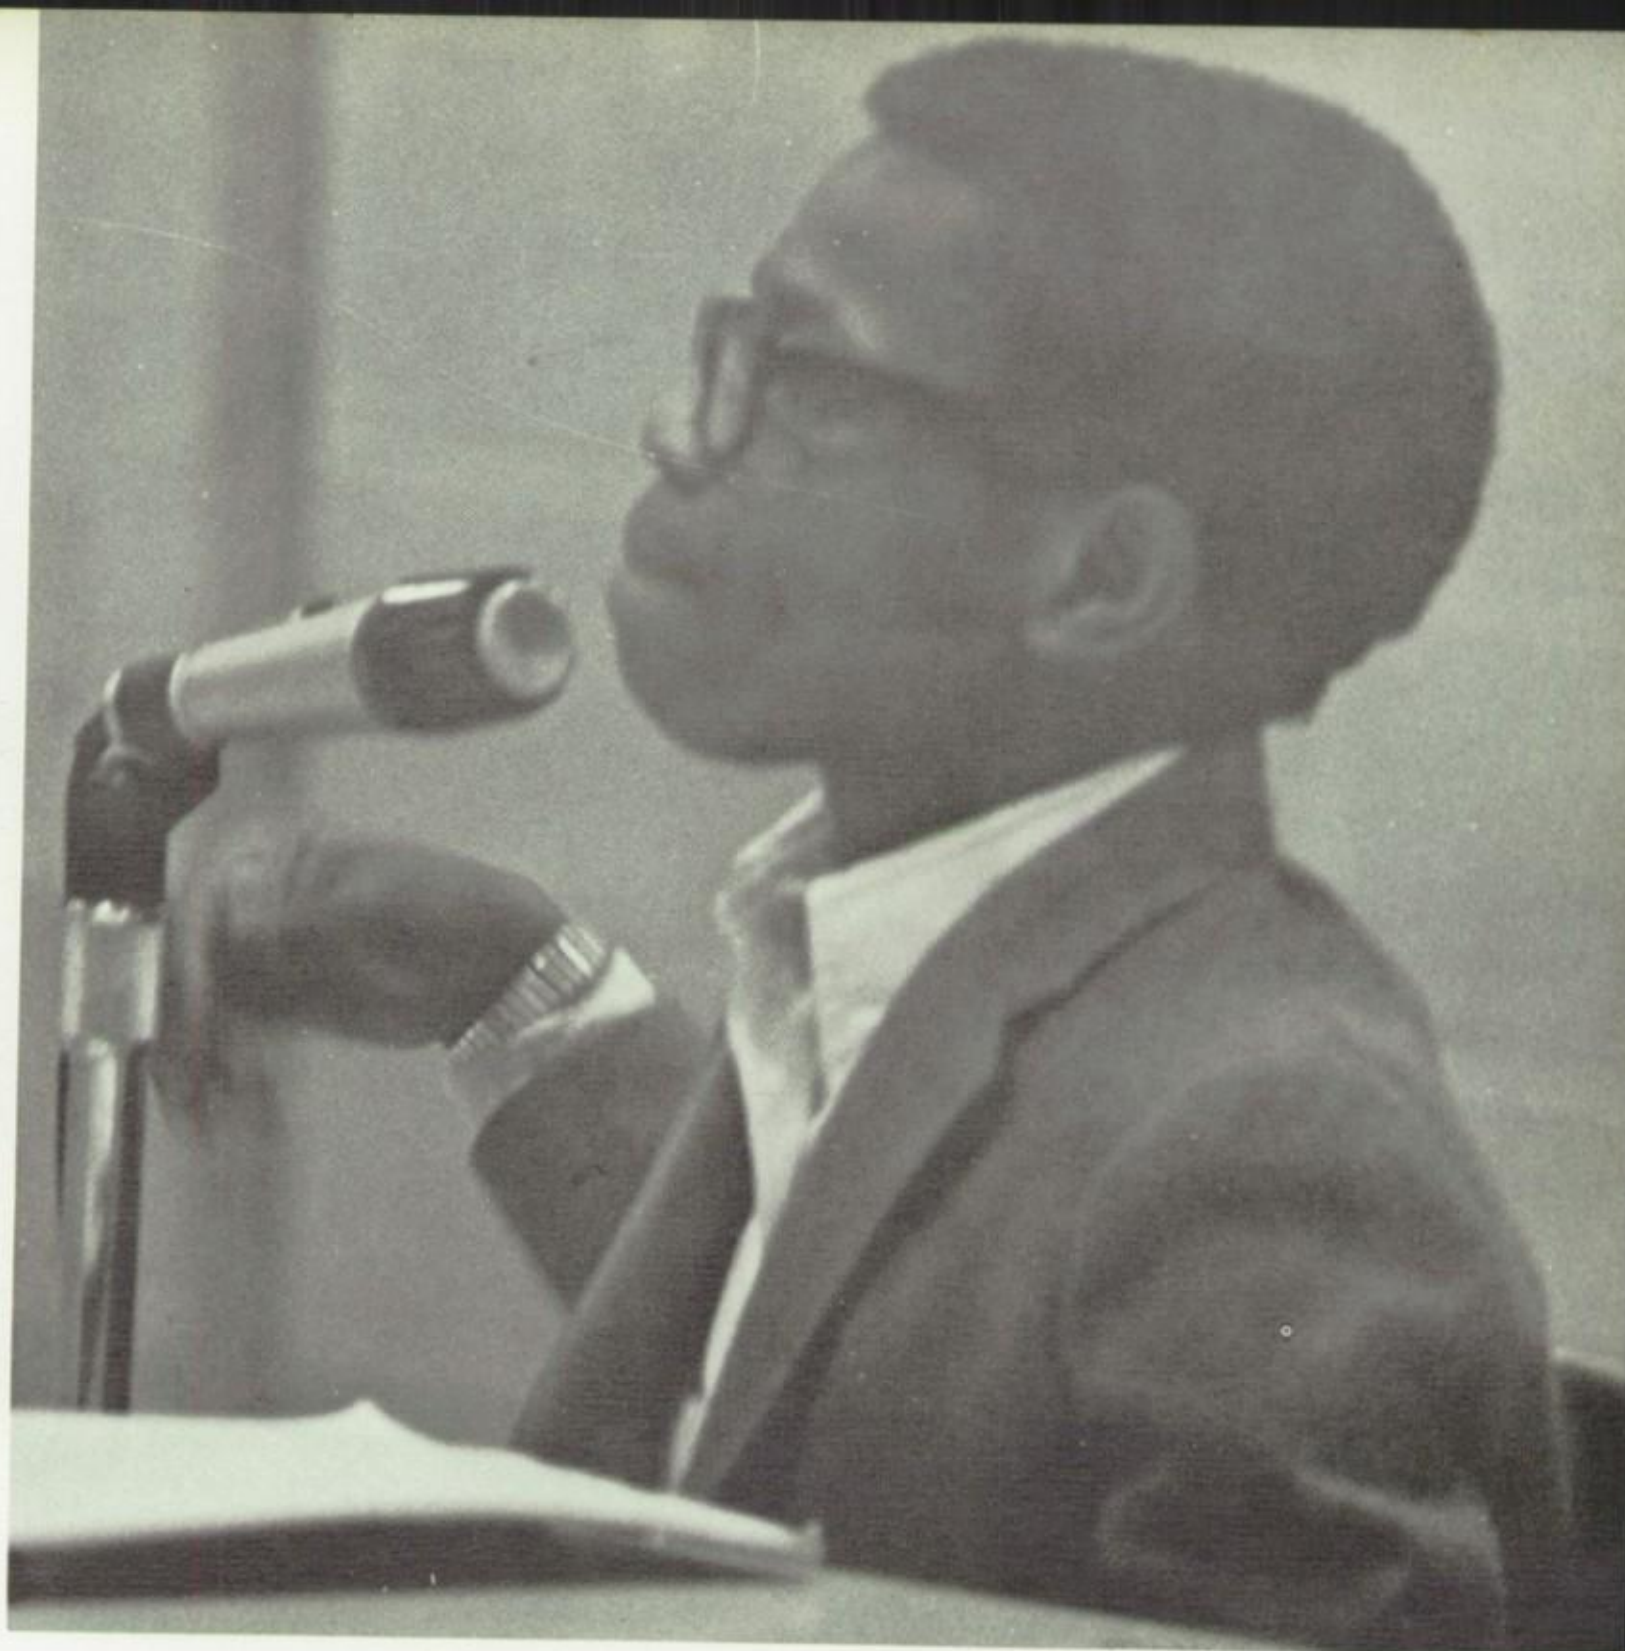

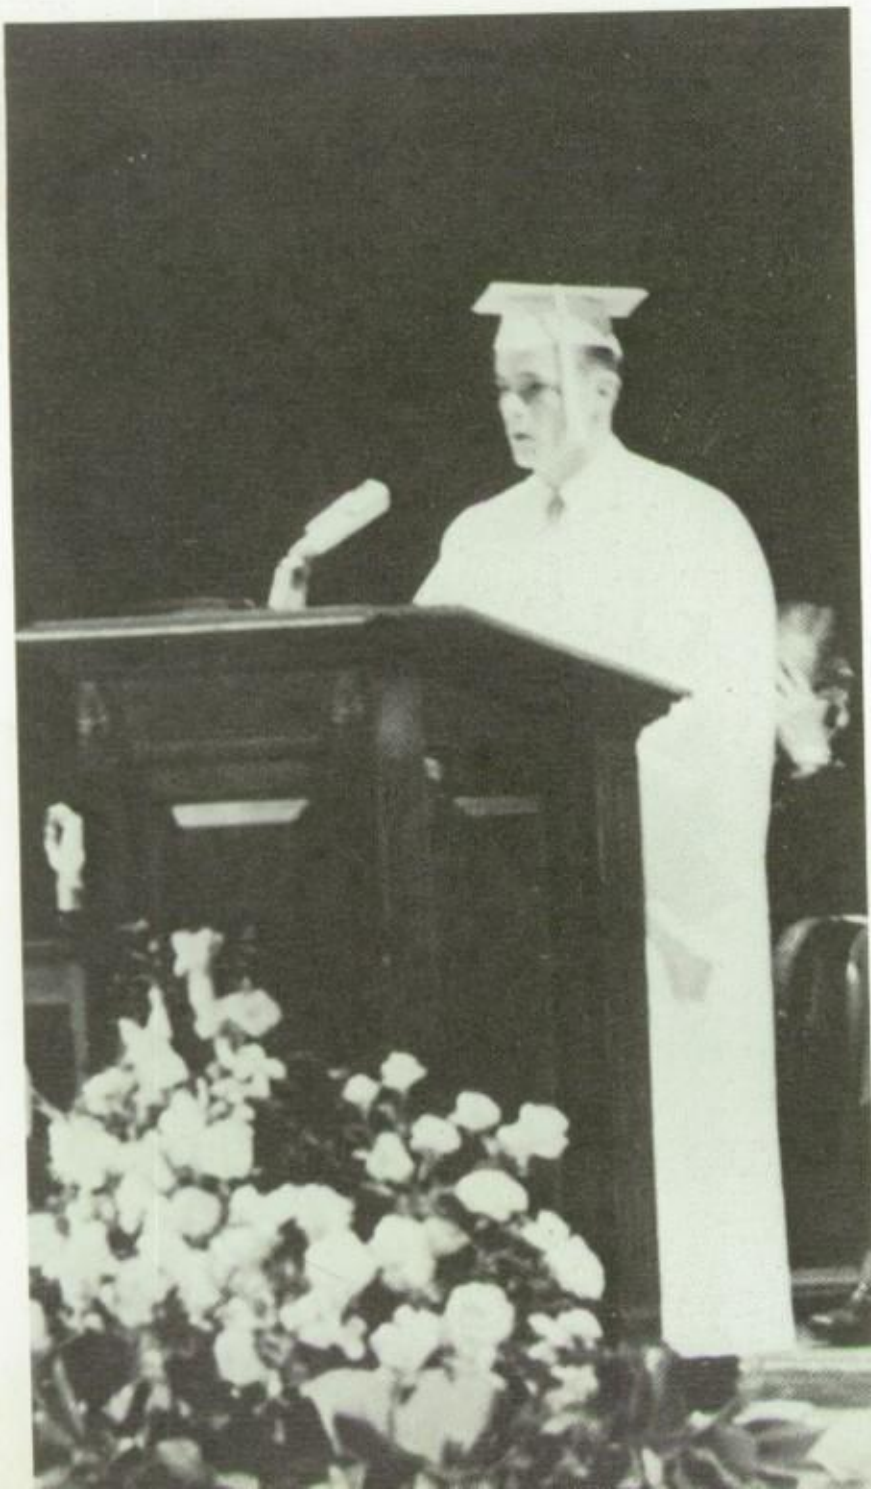

An angry black, a frightened white, a nervous administrator, a confused parent—these are the real stories.

An inadequate curriculum, an uninspiring teacher, an unchallenged student—these are the real features.

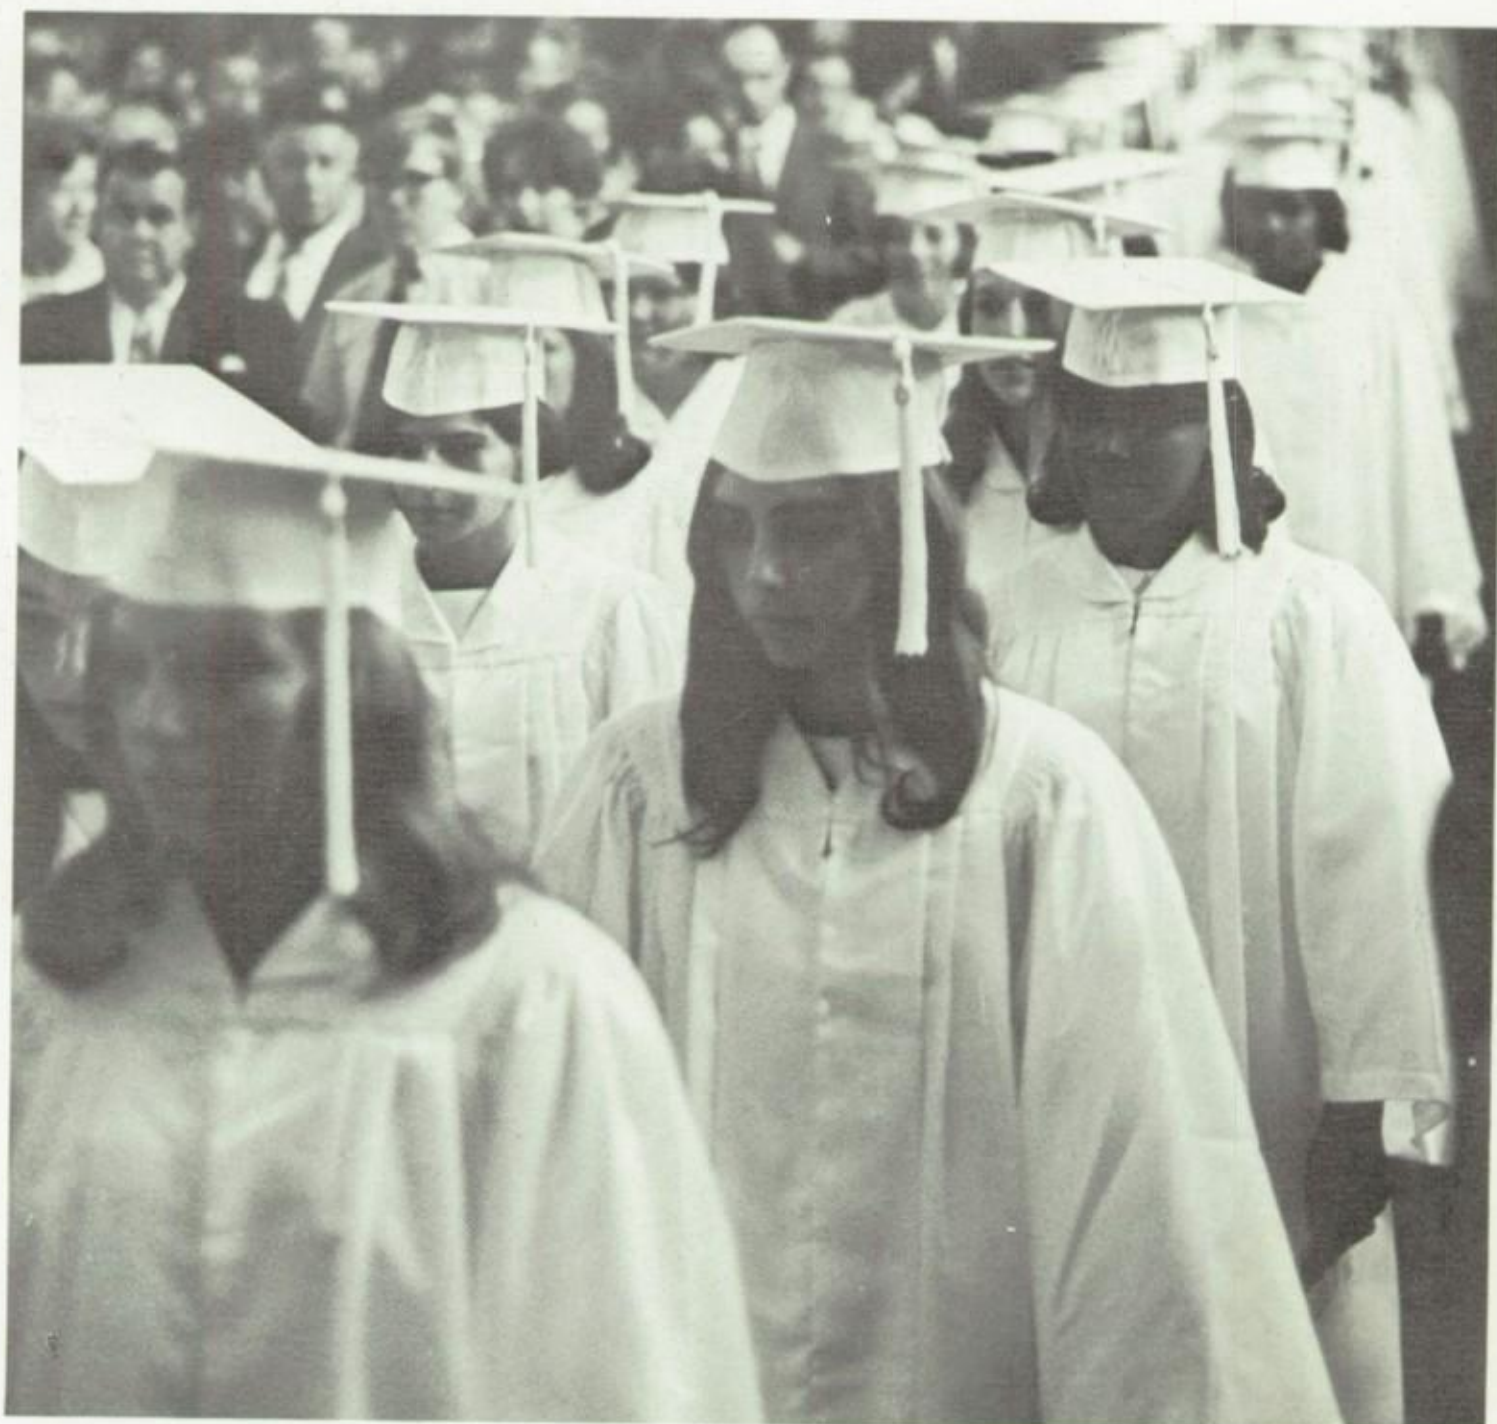

Junior-Senior, Girls' State, even graduation doesn't make up the true picture. They are side-lights, incidentals, anachronisms; but you can not photograph tensions, and you can't take a picture of failure in education.

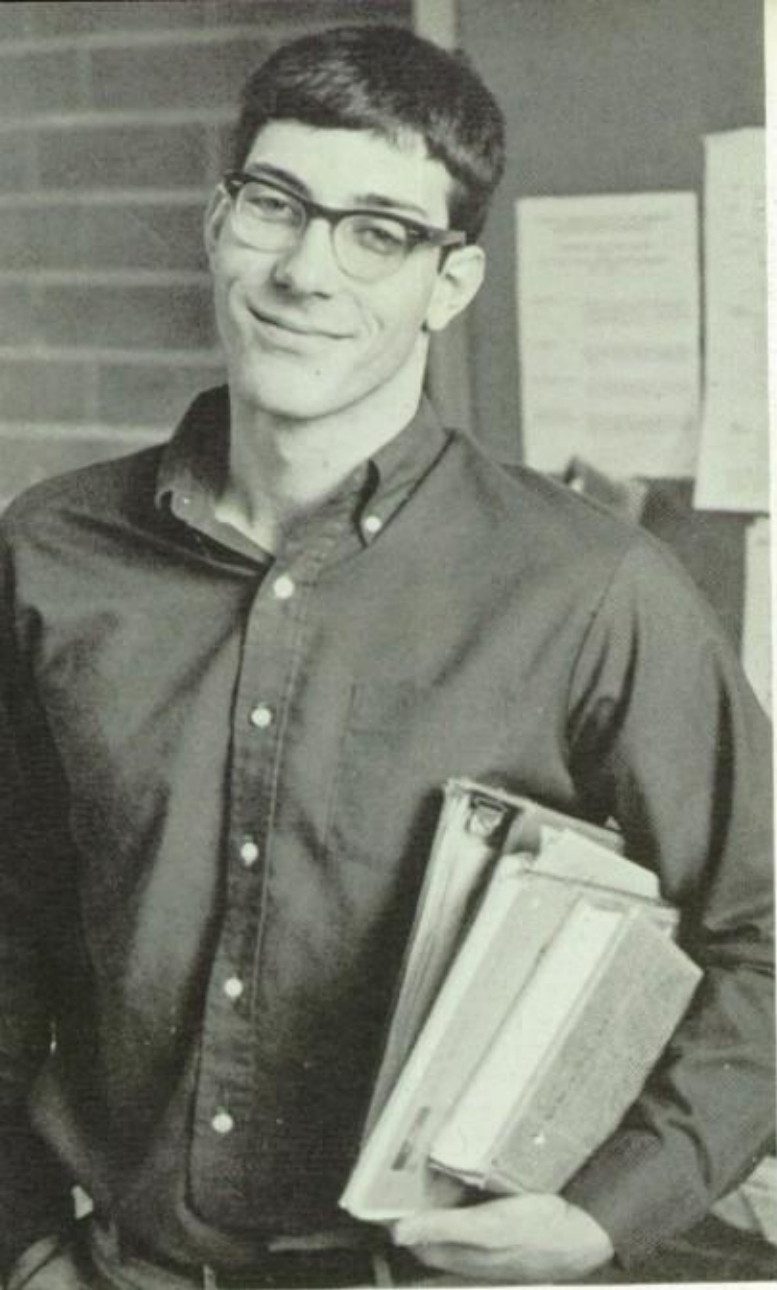

We must not give up hope, but, before we can make things better, we must admit how very bad things are.

classes

The ladder metaphor is apt. From the heights of ignorance, the sophomore progresses to a senior's depth of unknowing. Three years of learning teach that very little is certain or inarguable except, perhaps, that ice cream has no bones.

Novelty wears off and school becomes routine. You have three years to spend in the CHHS plant, so don't grit your teeth too hard or your jaw muscles will start aching. Graduation day has, in due course, arrived for all previous classes, but maybe yours will be the first class to remain forever in limbo, never breaking out, ungraduated and uninterested.

Faces are everywhere, of course,
for everyone but a hermit to see.
Yet, black or white, all faces keep a certain mystery. What lies behind a human face? What lies before it? A face is just a turning leaf of the invisible. And at the deepest level every human being—regardless of race— remains invisible to all the rest.
